Dear Community,

In the summer of 1492 Christopher Columbus set sail for the West and in doing so, changed the paradigm of the old world forever. Had Columbus not questioned the belief that the Earth was flat, he would not have embarked on his journey, proving the contrary and bringing forth countless new opportunities.

A similar paradigm shift is currently in full swing. The global economy is experiencing fundamental change. The Internet of Things is enabling devices to communicate amongst themselves. The impact of corporate business on the environment has launched a race for renewable energy and the advent of clean and autonomous transportation. Traditional business models are buckling under the pressure to remain competitive, while innovative startups make the stock market headlines.

This dynamic and a connected world requires leadership and infrastructure that are congruent with this new paradigm. Traditional models based on old world assumptions are failing on a global scale, incapable of adjusting efficiently to change. Columbus’s primary outstanding achievement came from within: the reshaping of his own internal perspective, in stark contrast with the dogma of his era.

In a world where more of the same is no longer enough, you and your business require truly different solutions.

Allow me to invite you to our “Unconference” to an 8 hour journey towards your new horizon on April 28th in Vienna, Austria.

HOW WILL THE UNCONFERENCE WORK?

At the Unconference you will experience the collective intelligence in action as it sources its energy from the crowd itself. Even content and order of the sessions can be chosen by your voting. In the very likely cast that you build on the ideas of others, you can translate your insights spontaneously into a 15 minute pitch for the next sessions to come.

WHAT YOU CAN EXPECT AT THE UNCONFERENCE?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TRADITIONAL CONFERENCE</th>
<th>UNCONFERENCE</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Presenters are seen as givers of knowledge, similar to the traditional model of teaching.</td>
<td>Anyone can present. There is choice and community, similar to more progressive teaching models.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Meticulously planned. The itinerary is complete and published in advance.</td>
<td>Spontaneity is planned for. There is room to adjust to what attendees want or need.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Presenters are honoured above those who attend.</td>
<td>Anyone can potentially present, so there is more equality.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Generally, there is a cost to attend.</td>
<td>Unconference are usually free.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Focus is on the sessions, networking is an added benefit.</td>
<td>Networking is one of the most important components and is purposefully planned for.</td>
